‘MAYA BAY’ REOPENS FOR TOURISM

From 1 October 2023, Maya Bay is reopened once again for tourists to travel and admire its beauty after closing to allow nature to recover from 1 August - 30 September 2023. Maya Bay is considered a destination for tourists from all over the world. The beauty of the emerald green sea is surrounded by limestone mountains with fine, soft, white, clear sand. You’re guaranteed to take home some beautiful pictures for sure.

In addition to Maya Bay, stop by to visit the beauty of “Pi Leh Bay”. Immerse yourself in the stunning, bright nature. The more you get to swim in the cool turquoise colored lagoon, the more satisfying it’ll be. End the trip by swimming with various kinds of gorgeous fish. There are both small black-tip reef sharks and Nemo fish around “Loh Samah Bay”.

SAT-1 Terminal at Thailand’s Suvarnabhumi International Airport is Now Open

The new SAT-1 terminal at Suvarnabhumi International Airport has been opened to the public following a soft launch on 28 September 2023 bringing its passenger handling capacity to 60 million per year from 45 million currently.

Covering a total indoor usable area of 251,400 square meters and apron area of more than 260,000 square meters, the SAT-1 terminal is a four-storey building with two basements.

The building is connected to the main terminal by an underground tunnel with a length of about one kilometer. Operating inside the tunnel are the APM system, the BHS, and two airside service roads.

Travelling from the current terminal to the SAT-1 terminal is by means of the APM, an unmanned electric vehicle with rubber wheels used solely to transport passengers.

Passengers travelling on international flights departing and arriving from the SAT-1 can take the APM. The journey time, including waiting time at the station for passengers, is about three minutes, and the APM can accommodate up to 210 passengers per train per way.

The Ancient Town of Si Thep Incribed UNESCO World Heritage Site

The UNESCO World Heritage Committee has listed “The Ancient Town of Si Thep and its Associated Dvaravati Monuments” in Phetchabun province as a cultural world heritage site, bringing the number of World Heritage Sites in Thailand to seven.

The Ancient Town of Si Thep is in Phetchabun province located some 340 km north of Bangkok. Phetchabun is best-known for its amazing scenery surrounded by mountains and mist and is a popular destination for trekking and camping.

Among Phetchabun’s famous attractions are several national parks – Khao Kho, Nam Nao, Phu Hin Rong Kla, and Thung Salaeng Luang – and its highest mountain Phu Thap Boek, the five overlapping white Buddha statues of Wat Phrathat Pha Son Kaeo, and That Yai Waterfall – one of the 25 finalists in the ‘Unseen New Chapters’ campaign.
